Teaching and Learning Emergent Research Methodologies in Art Education

Candace Jesse Stout, Editor

Once again, this is where imagination enters in, as the felt possibility of looking beyond the boundary where the backyard ends or the road narrows, diminishing out of sight.

—Maxine Greene, Releasing the Imagination, 1995 (p. 26)

Table of Contents

Introduction vii

Chapter 1. Teaching for the Possible: Doing Creative and Critical Research 1
Graeme Sullivan and Janet L. Miller

Chapter 2. It's a Delicate Subject: Teaching and Learning Arts-Informed Writing in Qualitative Research 21
Candace Jesse Stout

Chapter 3. Experiential Pedagogies in Research Education: Drawing on Engagement With Artworks 43
Liora Bresler

Chapter 4. A/r/tography: An Evolution of Questioning and Questing 65
Rita L. Irwin and Kathryn Ricketts

Chapter 5. Moving Pictures: Reshaping the Qualitative–Quantitative Divide Through the Currents of Arts-Based Research 77
James Haywood Rolling Jr.

Chapter 6. Precarious Leanings: The Prosthetic Research of Play in Art 97
Charles R. Garoian

Chapter 7. On the Difficulty of a Psychoanalytic Research Methodology for Art Education: The Discourse of the Analyst 115 jan jagodzinski

Chapter 8. From Acquaintance to Argument: Five Phases of Historical Investigation Within Art Education 141
Paul E. Bolin

Chapter 9. Crafting Representative Anecdotes: Art as Lived Experience 159
Christine Marmé Thompson

Chapter 10. A Conversation About Mentoring Emergent Research Methodologies: Theory, Experimentation, and Practice in Action Research and Arts-Based Research 175
Lynn Beudert and Elizabeth Garber

About the Contributors 195